Introduction

The Prerna Society of the Department of Political Science, Shyam Lal College (Evening), organized a Special Lecture Programme on 1 October 2026 in Lecture Hall 20. The programme was designed to welcome students to the society, introduce its objectives and activities for the academic session 2026–27, and provide an academic platform for engagement with contemporary issues in International Relations.

Special Lecture: Emerging Trends in International Relations

A special lecture on “Emerging Trends in International Relations: Decoding Power, Politics and Global Shifts in 21st century” was delivered by Prof. Nachiketa Singh, Principal, Shyam Lal College (Evening). The lecture provided students with an opportunity to engage with the changing dynamics of contemporary international affairs. It offered insights into historical development and evolving patterns in International Relations and encouraged students to connect their classroom learning with current global developments. The session also stimulated academic interest and participation among students through discussion and interaction.

Society Orientation

The lecture was followed by an orientation session that familiarized students with the vision, objectives and planned activities of Prerna Society. Students were encouraged to take an active part in the society’s academic and co-curricular initiatives during the new session. The programme also formally introduced the newly appointed office bearers of the society for 2026–27, helping students understand the structure of the society and the responsibilities associated with its different roles.

Participation and Outcome

Approximately 100 students participated in the programme. The Special Lecture and Orientation Programme 2026-27 marked an important beginning for Prerna Society's activities in the new academic session. The event successfully combined society orientation with academic learning, giving the students an understanding of Prerna Society's activities while also exposing them to contemporary debates in International Relations. The programme encouraged students to participate actively in the society and created a meaningful academic beginning for the session 2026-27.
